

Erling Vårdal

erling.vardal@econ.uib.no

Erling Vårdal is a professor in economics at the University of Bergen. Erling Vårdal has published several articles in agricultural economics, and has been engaged in building up agricultural economics as a field at the University of Bergen. His research has been focused on analyzing domestic support policies for agriculture and recently climate change policies for agriculture.