

Peter Andersen

peter.andersen@geog.uib.no

Peter Andersen is Associate Professor in geography at University of Bergen, with a background from Copenhagen University and Roskilde University Centre. He is teaching environmental management and development geography, and has a particular interest in critical perspectives on environmental change, agriculture, food and nutrition. One research interest is under-utilized crops as part of agro-biodiversity. He has worked in Southern Africa and South Asia, especially Nepal and India.